

Mihael Raveggi

General Overview

Mihael Raveggi has joined RBB Economics in 2002, and is now a senior associate in the Brussels office. He has completed two masters, respectively at the College of Europe in Bruges and at the London School of Economics, after receiving his degree from the University of Edinburgh.

Mihael holds a yearly undergraduate lecture at the Science Po faculty in Dijon on aspects of competition policy. He also maintains close ties with the economics department in the College of Europe in Bruges. He is fluent in Italian and English. He has also worked in French, and speaks Slovene.

Experience

Mergers: Economic analysis and advice in a number of European Phase II mergers. The required analysis involved developing economic arguments to explain the structure and functioning of markets, often starting in the pre-notification phase. Some examples include product and geographic market definition, assessment of the closeness of competition between parties, and complex estimation of market shares with patchy data.

Cartels and anti-competitive agreements: Defended parties in front of allegations of cartels and/or excessive prices. He also worked for third parties seeking damage claims, and used econometric techniques to estimate the size of the damage.

Sector Experience

Mihael has worked for clients in a range of industries, among which banks, medical equipment, music, films, tobacco, steel, gas, oil tankers, electrical switches and horse racing.

While most of the cases he has worked on fall under the jurisdiction of the European Commission, he has also worked on proceedings in the UK, Italy, France and Ireland. On one case he was called upon to give oral evidence in front of the Court of First Instance in Luxembourg.
